Comments about 2 The Sky - DJ Metatron

Gnng

Willing to trade my DJ Metatron - 2 The Sky (repressed) for Traumprinz - All the things.. Cheers Jan Munigrinn

This is a perfect EP. Led here from DJ Healer LP which is my AOTY for 2018.

Hystana

Any recommendations on storage and how to preserve the artwork on the sleeve?

Ice_One_Guys

keep in. a pvc plastic sleeve out of sunlight? words

I like this record, but I don't really understand what's supposedly so good about it. 2 Bad is a nice track, the rest didn't really catch my attention. 2 Bad definitely has something emotional going on, but also feel pretty lazy, the structure is really bare and the vocal sample does most of the work. Add and subtract some bass here and there for variety and that's all. Not really a mind bending experience IMO

GYBYXOH

U crazy. This is one of the best Ep of this year. Simply amazing. The more i listen to it, the more i love it and get into it.....A masterpiece!

Uranneavo

It's what it does with what it has mate. Bare structure isn't a negative

THE ORIGINAL

. . . . . '2 the sky' is pure bliss . . . . .

Vijora

2 Bad is one of my favourite tracks I have heard over the last year or two, it's the only reason why I bought this record on sight. The rest is solid to passable at best, but I don't care. I had to have this one tune on wax. In your comment about the structure and vocal sample...you are pretty much describing every Traumprinz/Metatron track ever made. It is stripped back, but it is just so damn effective.

Gralsa

Oh, so he sampled Mary J. Blige's "Too Bad" on "2 Bad." Neat!

Onnell

sure, but what he did with it is phenomenal. it's like that beiber 'u smile' mix slowed down by 800% or james holden's remix of britney' 'breathe on me', the original songs are disposable formulae pop, but in the hands of talented producer they are transformed into pure dynamite.

Jorius

Props to everyone posting their unique covers! It's nice to see how varied they are.

Meztisho

Mediocre /boring record in my opinion. Especially the vocals on A2 and B2 are cheesy and get even more annoying after I played it a few times. There are no parts I would consider fresh or innovative and the track I mixed most of the time was B1 because of the ambient samples. But hey, it's DJ Metatron/Traumprinz and even if you don't like it just purchase it if you can, because you can sell it and buy some serious records from the money. Maybe the fact, that this release is near to impossible to get for people relying on online sellers is a strategy to promote mediocre stuff as the new sh*t. Having sold-out releases (And keeping them sold-out by doing well-dosed reissues, not available to most people) seems to be the new currency of success. Would rate this 3 points because I understand people who have better feelings about this music. But the fact that the whole release policy surrounding this is so disgustingly exclusive, I feel better with a lower rating. I just donated the record to a friend, but I guess he's kind of bored by this as well.

Mysterious Wrench

I couldn't agree more. The weakest Giegling in loong time and I'm starting to think they made it on purpose just to see how stupid people will pay anything for shuffled 90ties breakbeats with the most boring pads and repetitive vocal samples. Massive Attack did this much better 20 years ago. It sounds seriously like they made it 2 hours or so. Yep guys, it's "2 bad" :))

santa

I have to agree. It seems strange to me to issue these records in the manner this label does; it almost seems that the hype surrounding the record speaks more than the music itself. By no means are the tracks badly produced, but for me it falls somewhat flat in comparison to some records that have aimed to put the listener in a similar headspace. I loved the first DJ Metatron 12" but this is a fairly average follow-up. Still interested to see where he takes his sound next!

Uanabimo

Couldnt agree more. Some old school massive attack backbeats with emotive synth chords and added vocals samples over the top... A Massive/Moby mashup. Too little development or transition in the tracks. And it just doesnt groove...

Mightdragon

tell ur friend to donate it here! im sure some ppl gonna be happy!
